Police Quiz Six About Robberies Thruout Borough

Hope To Break String of Thefts Plaguing Lawmen

Bristol borough police today quizzed six suspects concerning three robberies totaling $50 that occurred Friday. Investigating Officer Vincent Farragalli said police hope to smash a series of other robberies which have been plaguing the community.

Late yesterday Patrolman George Shire arrested Owen M. Good, 19, of Fourth and Broadway, West Bristol, on suspicion, and brought him into police headquarters for questioning.

Interrogation by borough police led to the arrest of five more men as police set up a dragnet to apprehend youthful suspects of recent robberies.

Nab Youths

Patrolmen Charles Haines and Bentley Chapin, of the Bristol township police, picked up the Youths at a dance in the Community Hall of Bristol Terrace I.

Picked up at the hall were Elmer Staublein, 22, of 364 Magnolia road, William E. Grotz, 18, of 426 Court A, Terrace II, and two other boys whose ages were listed as 16 and 17.

Youth Quizzed

Grotz, when questioned by borough police on the robberies, admitted a theft now being investigated by township police. He confessed that he had loaned his automobile to "several persons" who filled the tank from fuel stolen from the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Officer Faragalli said the investigation now in progress will snap a string of robberies which were carried out within recent months.

Folowing questioning by borough police the suspects will be transferred to township police late today for investigation of a similar series of robberies, Faragalli said .

Bristol Police Find Youths With Smut; Step up Campaign

The presence of obscene literature in the pockets of two of six boys questioned by Bristol police yesterday in a Friday night burglary has intensified the department's drive against smut in the borough.

The boys were arrested by Bristol Township police at the request of borough authorities, according to Bristol Police Officer Vincent Faragalli. One of the group, Borough Police Chief Linford J. Jones said, a 16-year-old boy who had run away from his home and school, had playing cards with obscene poses on the faces.

Had Similar Cards

Jones said the cards were similar to those he and Faragalli found Wednesday in a raid on the home of Albert Ciccanti, of 825 Third avenue. Ciccanti, who the police said possessed obscene books and pictures, told police he sold the lewd material at his place of employment in Trenton, N. J. He testified that he found it in the weeds near Silver Lake."

Faragalli, who is conducting an investigation into the spread of the smut, was not available today for more information. He had a court case scheduled in Doylestown.

Clergymen of the area continued to urge members of their congregations to stamp out smutty material, which Criminologist Sidney Meth said is published in Philadelphia.

The Rev. Edward G. Yeomans, pastor of Bristol Presbyterian Church, said he will alert his church members to the situation in the January issue of his monthly newsletter. The problem will be discussed by the Bristol Ministerium at its next meeting, he said. The group will hold its next regular meeting Wednesday, Jan. 13.

Comments On Arrest

Commenting on the arrest of the Bristol man, and of the youths this morning, the pastor said: "I am glad police have apprehended them, as I feel they have stemmed the tide. I hope everybody will keep up his efforts to track this down."

The present-day spread of salacious material was likened to persecutions of early Christians by the Roman government in a sermon preached yesterday to the congregation at Oxford Valley Chapel.

Both, said the pastor, the Rev. Philip Weiss, were to satisfy "fleshly lust with wild orgies." The pastor reminded his congregation of the comfort given to the mistreated Christians in the plea of St. Paul the Apostle, to "have faith in the living God."

Stresses Action

"We Christians definitely have to do something more than just talk," Rev. Weiss told the churchgoers. "Parents belonging to PTA organizations should stand on their feet at meetings and raise a cry that the conditions must be stopped."

Discussing the situation further this morning, the pastor expressed the belief that Communists may be behind the circulation of the smut.

"I think (the Communists) are pushing it in order to cause the minds of our children to be filled with the wrong knowledge," Rev. Weiss said.

"The ways of Communism are ex-

Church Tops Goal In Drive To Raise Fund For Building

A total of $40,000 has been raised by members of the Morrisville Methodist Church in the Church's Loyalty Crusade. The crusade, which was began Nov. 29 and ended yesterday, exceeded its goal of $30,000 by $10,000, the Rev. Harold J. Schieck, pastor, said.

"The fund drive has had excellent results," Rev. Schieck said. He added that funds would go toward the renovation of the exterior of the church, including improvement of the church walls ,its foundation, and its parking facilities. Improvements also to be made to the interior of the church include the vestibule, church office, and the purchase of a new organ. The parsonage is also earmarked for small repairs.

"A great portion of the additional $10,000 that we raised," Mr. Schieck said, will go into a sinking fund for further building. Our congregation has been expanding continually, and we have to do further building in the very near future." Rev. Schieck added that another facet of the Loyalty Crusade was an effort to strengthen church attendance, and that this, too, had been successful.

"Our attendance has multiplied rapidly," he said, "We will have to have two more Sunday School sessions to accomodate everyone."

Mr. Schieck said that church membership now numbers more than 500 people.

Ditch Draws Fire From Residents Of Winder Village

Many Winder Village residents today voiced complaints on a faulty drainage ditch that floods water into the streets and sidewalks of the community.

The ditch is located between two homes on the edge of the village adjacent to King's farm. One resident whose home abuts the ditch, Nick DeMara, of 113 Winder drive, said that every time a heavy rainfal occurs water floods the streets and sidewalks and lawns.

DeMara explained that the ditch was put in the village to serve the entire community by Bristol township. However, DeMara claims that ditch is inadequate and should be changed.

Mrs. Charles W. Ulrich, of 189 Winder drive, whose home is near the ditch, said "some action should be taken by the township commissioners to combat the condition."

"I believe it could be done without much expense to the township," Mrs. Ulrich said. "The water accumulates too fast for the ditch to carry it off and spreads back over lawns and driveways, sometimes blocking access to your own front door."

COUNCIL TO MEET

An adjourned meeting of Common Council, Morrisville, will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow at Borough Hall.

The storm which lashed at Lower Bucks County last night and early this morning is about over the Philadelphia Weather Bureau said.

Strong winds can be expected, but there will be little more rain, and the possibility of snow is almost non-existant. Winds will rise as high as 30 to 35 miles per hour, according to the weatherman. However, without the driving rain, the intensity of the storm will be lessened.

Temperatures are expected to go no lower than 32 degrees tonight, limiting the possibility of snow. Snow is expected, however, in the western part of the state and in Southern New York.

Flood Threatens

The Yardley bridge tender reported that the Delaware River was 24 points over high at the 10 a. m. reading and slowly rising.

"If it keeps coming up the way it is now, there will be a flood," he said. "There's about five feet to go before its on the road."

The storm, which hit the area with unexpected force, was the tail end of a gale which formed near Florida Saturday. It moved along the coast yesterday, hitting this area last night.

The night-long rain resulted in overflowing storm sewers and clogged gutters. Lowland fields in Middletown Township were giant muddy lakes. Silver Lake, Bristol Township, was muddy and close to overflowing.

Levittown residents reported newly planted trees tipped over by the force of the storm and freshly seeded lawns floating away. Television aerials were blown down by the force of the wind.

Hip Boots in Order

Bristol Borough policemen went on school patrol this morning dressed in hip boots and rain hats and coats. .

In Bensalem Township, the storm uprooted a tree on Street road, tieing up traffic for several hours. Cars were forced to detour until workmen were able to move it.

Motorists described driving as "hazardous" as rain lessened the visibility.

Road Work Halted

The Langhorne barracks of the State Police reported slippery roads. The police said they had received no complaints, however, as the result of washed out roads.

Road construction was at a standstill as partly completed highways became a sea of mud. Robert Schaffer, state engineer in charge of construction of the Oxford Valley road from the Fairless Hills shopping center to Trenton road, said the storm might slow up final stages of the road building.

The youngsters, children of Mrs. Mary McGinley, 728 Wood street, were staying with their aunt, Mrs. Catherine Phillips, at the same address. One of the children set fire to the bedding, while playing with a candle.

People, Places & Things

BY CAROL GABLER

Sergeants were Never Like This:

Wher two sergeants get married—to each other—well, that's news in itself; but when two sergeants get married to each other three times, that's really news.

Joe and Dorothy Moore, 41 Bentwood lane, Levittown, probably set some sort of a record back in 1947. In the short span of two days, they were married three times.

Joe, a master sergeant in the Army, and Dorothy, a sergeant in the WAC Medical Corps, met each other in Japan that year—and fell in love. Instead of waiting till they came back to the States, they decided to be married in Japan.

On June, 12, 1947, they were married twice. once in a Japanese ceremony, as required by law (all Joe did was sign a couple of papers, while Dorothy just sat and did nothing); and the second time they were married at the U. S. Consulate, also required by law.

But Dorothy—though she had sat quietly during the first ceremony—decided she wanted a church wedding, too. So two days later, on the 14th, they were married again in the army base's chapel.

Now, settled in Levittown, both agree there's nothing like getting married three timse—to the same person.

Civic Defense:

If you're a member of a civic association, or if you plan to join one, or plan to form one, this month's Better Homes and Gardens magazine gives quite a comprehensive story on why such organizations are needed ,and how much can be accomplished by forming a strong one.

Dog Expert:

Guest speaker at the Windsor Kennel club's meeting tonight is Mrs. Charlene Roberts, a woman who knows what she's talking about.

Her topic is German Shepherd dogs, and Mrs. Roberts is the owner of the champion dog, Minna Gwynllan (also known as "Duchess"). "Duchess," a sable and white German Shepherd, has won her major points in dog shows in Trenton and in Valley Forge. Mrs. Roberts, who works in a Bristol pet shop, has been training and caring for German Shepherds for the past 10 years.

The apprentice-judge at dog shows and member of the Eastern Pennsylvania Steward club will use "Duchess" to illustrate her talk tonight The talk will be at the William Penn Center at 8:15.

The Case of the Roving Trash Can:

The trash can placed by the Lions club in front of the St. Mark's Church on Radcliffe street, Bristol, seems to have a mind of its own. At least, it won't stay in one place.

The can, which is not weighted in the bottom and which therefore is not stationary, somehow crept off the sidewalk, and kept moving until it landed in front of borough hall. It being near Christmas, and the policemen kind-hearted anyway, they decided to take the trash can in out of the cold. Briefly, the can rested inside borough hall, but now the desk officer informs us the Lions are going to return the can to its original spot. Perhaps chains will help, this time, or handcuffs. . . . .

Here 'n' There:

When the Ladies Auxiliary of Newportville Fire Company No. 1 gets together, they don't completely exclude males. Last week, in fact, they invited Henry Dawicki, vice president of the company, to their meeting—and even let him do the talking! . . . . Lower Bucks County Clubmen's Association has about 2,000 members.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Tullytown Borough Council will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Tullytown fire station.

WINS PAROLE

DOYLESTOWN — A parole was granted to a Philadelphia man in Quarter Sessions Court. The parolee, Theodore Kasiewski, 32, 4557 Milnor street who was sentenced Nov. 2 to pay a $20. fine, costs of prosecution and serve not less than 30 days, nor more than a year, was arrested by Bristol Township Patrolman Bentley Chaplin.

Since the end of World War II, nearly a billion people in the world have attained national independence, but there still are 200 million who have not ye. achieved full self-government.

Red Cedar Women Will Meet Tonight To Plan Programs

An executive meeting of the Red Cedar Hill Women's Club of Levittown will be held tonight at the home of its acting-president, Mrs. Patricia Ehas, 5 Rolling lane, Levittown.

The program for the group's next meeting will be discussed, and general plans made for the newly-organized group.

At the club's first meeting Thursday night, acting-officers were appointed and committee heads and members named. Mrs. Terry Sorin, of the Thornridge Women's club, spoke to the group and assisted in the organization of the chapter.

Acting officers are Mrs. Ehas, president; Mrs. Cass Currie, vice president; Mrs. Dot Sweeney, secretary, and Mrs. Blanche Mobley, treasurer.

Lower Bucks Hospital Continues To Grow As Workmen Labor To Complete Construction

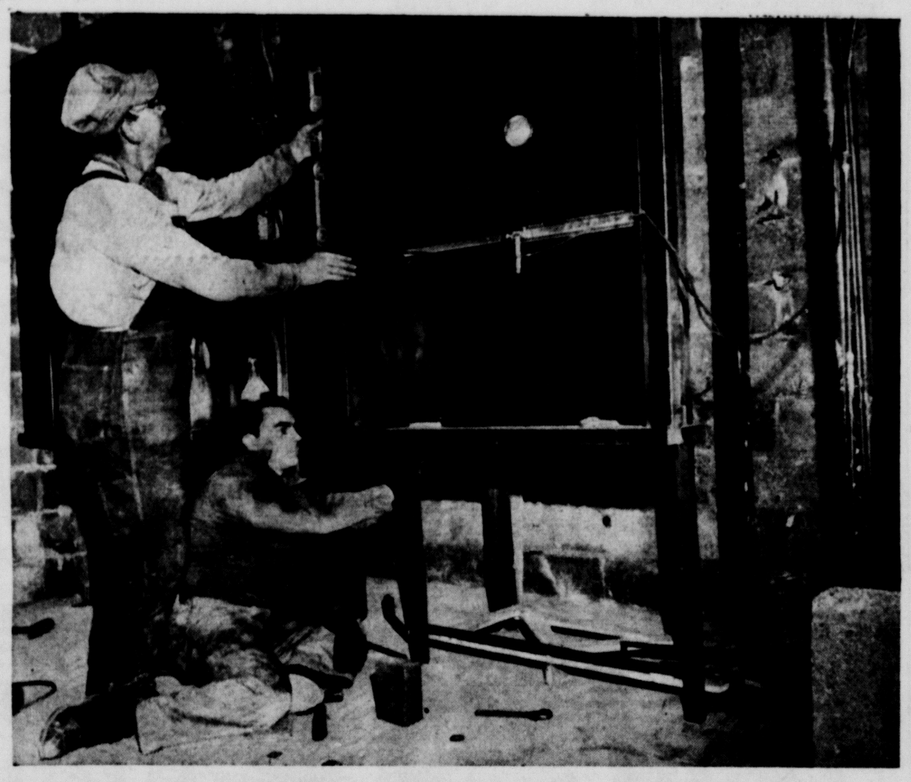

JUST CHECKING TO MAKE SURE, Elmer Kleppinger (right), hospital official, and Warren A. Jennings, hospital coordinator, look over the blueprints outside the partially-completed Lower Bucks County Hospital building, Bath road, Bristol township.

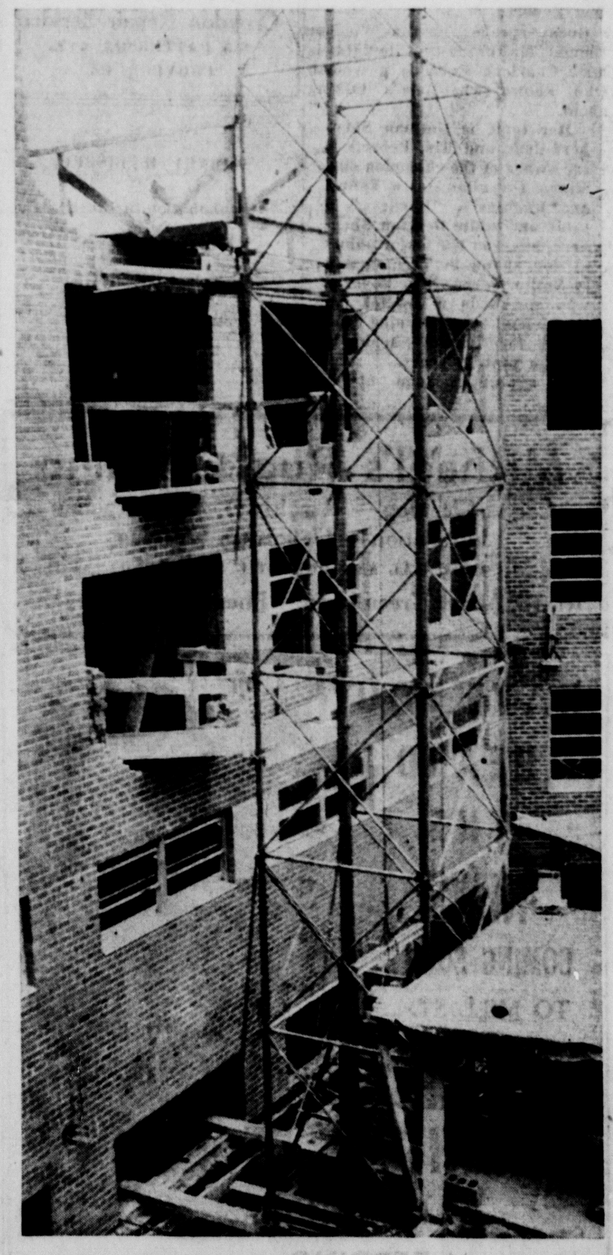

INSTALLING THE HOSPITAL WINDOWS is Daniel McKeon of Clifton Heights, Pa. The windows are aluminum-hinged, with a horizontal bar, which allows the greatest amount of light to enter the building, McKeon said. Windows are all double-hinged.

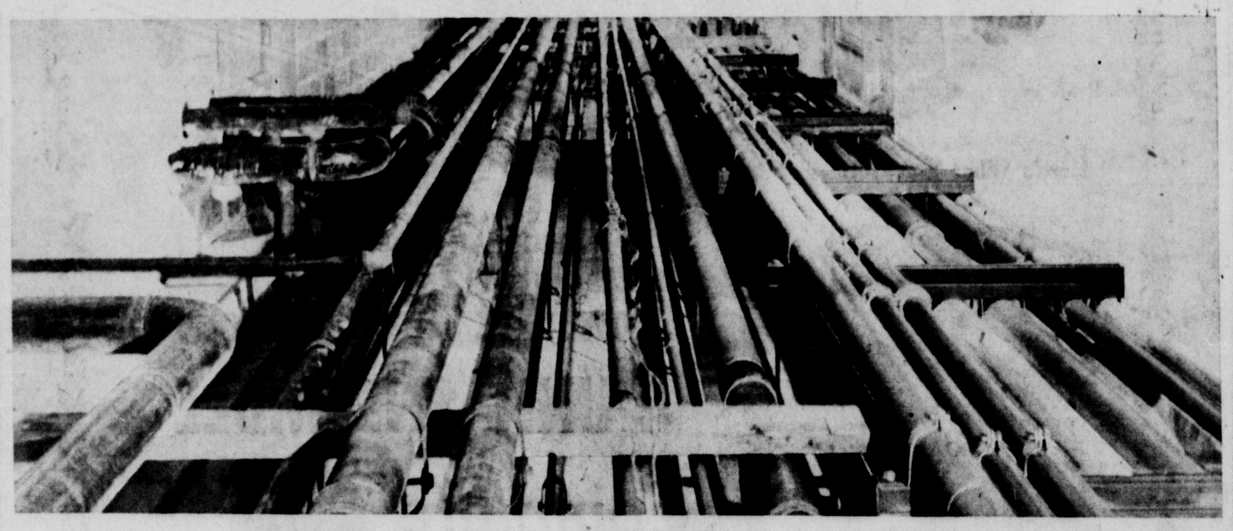

THE NEW HOSPITAL HAS, not one furnace but two, and they're both housed in a building separate from the main one. Working on a portion of the furnaces are Sam Wilson, of Philadelphia, and Howard Boardman, of Fort Washington.

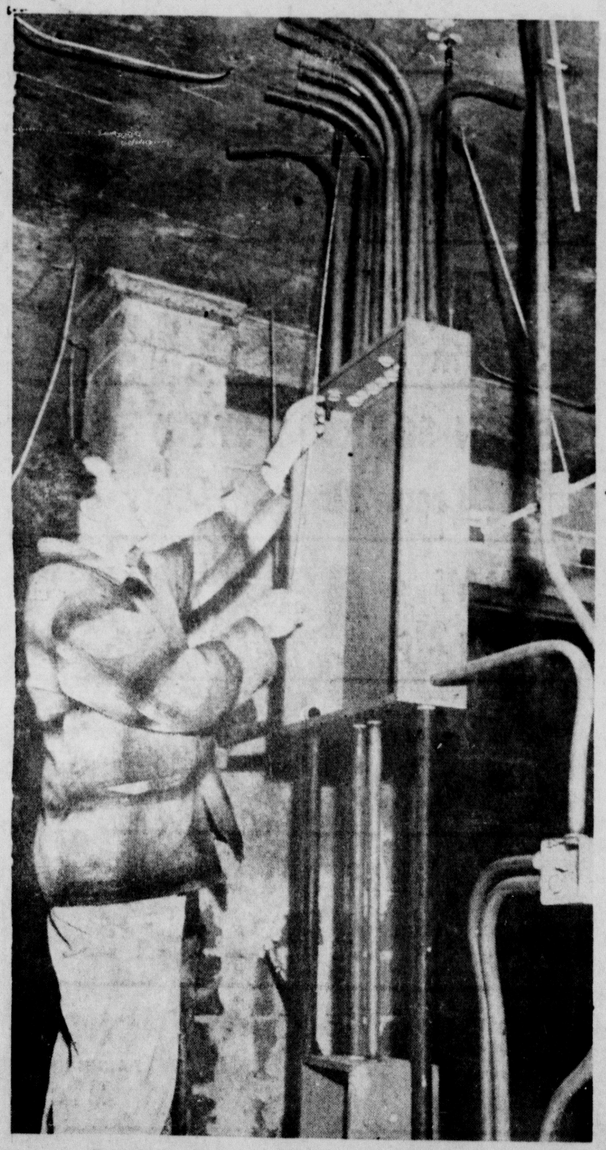

THEY'VE THOUGHT OF EVERYTHING, it seems. Pictured above is an electric dumbwaiter that will operate between the main and top floors. It will carry supplies to the needed floors. Elevator constructors are John Woolf (left) of Trenton, and Dominic Iannetta, of Fort Washington.

THE SKELETON ELEVATOR shown above speeds building materials to various levels of the building as construction goes on at a steady clip.

MILES AND MILES of piping carrying power lines, water, gas, steam, fire sprinkler system, oxygen, compressed air and a vacuum line, everything on tap for emergencies and for the routine. This shot was taken in corridor C of the building.

Courier Staff Photos

TERMINAL BOX for an intercommunication system at the hospital is being checked by Thomas Brennan of Trenton. The box in one wing of the structure will connect to others throughout the hospital. The communications system will permit rapid summoning of personnel to various parts of the building.

Lower Bucks Hospital Due To Open Next September

The Lower Bucks County Hospital will be open and ready to serve the residents of the area by September, 1954, according to Warren A. Jennings, public relations chairman of the hospital.

At present it is 56.42 per cent completed. This figure takes into consideration that the equipment still must be installed, Jennings said. The brick work is completed. The window frames are in and the glazing is nearly finished.

"This means work can be continued regardless of the weather," Jennings said.

Partitions on 2 Floors

All the partitions are completed on the first and second floors, with the exception of where they have been left out to allow moving in large equipment.

When completed the hospital will have 150 general patient beds, with an undetermined number of basinettes. This in an increase of 50 over the capacity originally planned for the hospital.

The kitchen, boiler, clinics and other facilities of the hospital have been planned to serve 300 patients. The bed capacity of the hospital can be doubled without interrupting the service of the hospital, by the addition of two wings.

Edward L. Helwig, chairman of the site and building committees of the hospital was named president of the hospital's board of directors last week. A vice president of Rohm and Haas, Philadelphia, and a director of the Farmer's National Bank, Bristol, he has served on the hospital's staff and permanent committees.

Frank Flatch was elected first vice president. He is chairman of organized labor's United Hospital Committee, a chief steward of Local 130 of UAW (CIO) at Kaiser Metal Products, Inc., Bristol and president of the Lower Bucks County CIO Council. He served as member of the hospital's staff committee and was a member of the board's executive committee.

Serves in Post

Newly elected second vice president Louis Dries is a Bristol merchant. He is a director and first vice president of the Bristol Trust Company and a community division representative for the hospital fund.

James E. Harris was named to the rank of president emeritus after serving as board president since the founding of the hospital.

The title is contingent upon changes in the by-laws to create the new post. Harris, who lives in Surf City, N. J., retired as manager of the insurance department of Philadelphia Electric Co. on Oct. 1.

Rene Tritschler was re-elected secretary. He is an AFL member of the United Labor Hospital Committee and is the Central Labor Union's representative on the board.

Named Treasurer

Harold F. Hunter was renamed treasurer. An assistant cashier at the Farmer's National Bank, Bristol, he has served as chairman of the completion fund campaign's executive committee.

Three new members were named

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

O magnify the Lord with me, let us exhalt His name together.—Ps. 34:3.

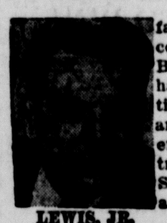

The best way to do that is by showing how perfectly we reflect His love and kindness.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—The Department of Agriculture, under broad attack for its efforts to impose Republican policies, is one of the worst examples of government agencies hamstrung by inability to replace holdover Democrats in key positions.

Left-wing and so-called "liberal" commentators and columnists for several months have been concentrating their attack on Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for his avowed advocacy of "free enterprise" in agriculture—for his avowed desire to eliminate government regulation from farming and turn it back to the farmers.

LEWIS, JR.

But even in the face of these concentrated attacks, Benson probably has had his hands tied worse than any other top government administrator by Civil Service red tape and regulations. His department's difficulties constitute one of the most-cited cases being used by Congressional GOP leaders in their effort to convince the White House that the Civil Service Commission must ease up on its insistence that GOP replacements in top policy-making and administrative jobs be held to an absolute minimum.

A prize example of Agriculture's difficulties is the fact that its new administration thus far has been unable even to bring in its own Director of Personnel. Still on the job is T. Roy Reid, the same fair dealing Arkansas Democrat who has held the position since 1941.

The department wanted to place this job in the new "schedule C" classification—the category of confidential or policy-making jobs which can be filled without regard to Civil Service regulations or rosters. The Civil Service Commission's answer? No, it could not be so classified.

Benson spokesmen suggested to Reid that he might resign voluntarily. No, replied Reid, he only had a couple of years to go to reach full retirement status, and he wanted to serve them out in his present spot.

If a private business brought in a new general manager to effect new methods and policies, he would be expected to install as his personnel boss someone in sympathy with his new policies who would seek sincerely to carry them out. If he failed to do so, he would not be considered a good general manager.

But here is Benson brought in to install in one of the government's biggest and most important departments, the free enterprise economy for which the people voted last year. He has been in office almost a year; and thanks to unjustifiable red tape, he still has as his Personnel Director a man who has been nurtured on, and apparently fully believes in, the new deal theory of the biggest government possible.

Furthermore, in this case there is reason to believe that either Reid or some of his holdover subordinates have been working actively in a sub rosa manner to hold New agriculture department appointments to the lowest number possible.

There is a widely believed report that someone in the department's personnel office worked secretly with certain members of the Civil Service Commission staff to bring about a CSC ruling which forced the retention of holdover officials in key agriculture jobs despite the department's recent reorganization.

That ruling, announced by the commission just two days before the department's reorganization went into effect, required that when the duties of a job are transferred to a new position, the holder of the old job also must be transferred to the new spot.

It meant that although duties and jobs now have been reshuffled and switched around, the same old faces . . . the same Democratic appointees who detest the policies Benson is trying to put into effect . . . are holding forth at the same old stand. There is no doubt that in some cases they are actively trying to sabotage his programs.

Dusting Off The News

By CHARLES O. MOLZ

Now that the banks are using television to verify the signatures on checks, people can consider themselves on a quiz show every time they go to the teller's window.

As the Bristol restaurants are never without their juke box music, it is good to know that the inventor of last year's spaghetti fork with revolving prongs is bringing out a soup spoon with harmonica attachment.

If the Bristol police go to burning all the salacious books they seize, someone is sure to ask whether the state department knows about this.

Our next door neighbor says the Christmas season will be a little more cheerful for him if the peope from the stores are as nice to him on the street as they are to his wife when she opens his check book.

The 1954 automobiles are turning up in the Bucks County show rooms in all their bright colors. No one has found just the right combination to go with a chartreuse convertible, but any teenager with red hair can be fairly conspicuous with the top down.

Lazy Louie says the average American is supposed to walk four times around the earth in his lifetime, but his feet hurt him so bad now he'll hardly get much farther than Wilkes-Barre.

Our seven-year-old nephew, Cholmondley, running around with one of those things over his head that looks like a Wall Street ticker, refuses to have anything to do with a Santa Claus who arrives in an airplane. He'll wait for one that lands from a space ship.

Contracts Are Let For New State Office Building

HARRISBURG—Contract awards for the erection of the Commonwealth's new 18-story office building for the Bureau of Employment Security and part of the State Department of Labor and Industry in Harrisburg, have been made by the General State Authority to the following low bidders:

General construction, John McShain, Inc., Philadelphia, $5,926,700; air-conditioning, Riggs Distler Company, Inc., Philadelphia, $1,083,500; plumbing, Herre Brothers, Harrisburg, $282,742; electrical construction, Herre Brothers, Harrisburg, $980,547; kitchen and cafeteria equipment, the Arbycraft Company, Philadelphia, $83,914.

Award of the contract for the elevator installations was deferred until later the Authority said, pending a checkup of the details of low base bid proposals.

Tallest Office Unit

The addition to the Capitol group, designed by Lacy, Atherton and Davis, architects of Wilkes-Barre and Harrisburg, will be the tallest office building in the city. It will be topped only by the main or central capitol building. When ready for occupancy it will accommodate between 2000 and 2500 employes and will make possible the concentration of the offices and files of most of the department under one roof.

The total of low bids is more than $300,000 under the Authority allocation of a little more than $9,000,000 for the project. The $17.25 cost per square foot for the construction, according to a member of the architects firm, is very favorable in comparison with the square foot cost in similar construction in other cities.

Two Years to Finish

The proposed new Capitol unit will be located at Seventh and Forster streets and will require two years to complete. Among the new features in office construction will be the big cafeteria on the fourth floor in which 450 people can be served at a time.

On the second floor there will be a meeting room with accommodations for at least 900 people. Installation of moveable metal partitions will make possible the expansion or limiting of office space as may be required. The lighting will be set flush with the ceilings, and underfloor conduits will permit the attaching of ready connections for desk lamps, desk machinery and telephones without the necessity for wall connections.

An interesting scholastic football rivalry between schools with an almost parallel history of expansion is in the manufacture. If consummated, it will pair off Bristol Township's Delhaas High with Plymouth-Whitemarsh High (near Norristown) in annual September combat.

The two teams already have inked a contract for Sept. 25, 1954 and will meet at Memorial field, Conshohocken, PW's temporary quarters.

Plymouth-Whitemarsh, an imposing modern, structure of red brick, is situated along alternate route 422, or Germantown Pike, just a few miles beyond the Philadelphia city border. It is in its first year of operation now and includes only grades seven throught ten. An 11th grade will be added in 1954 and a 12th in '55.

The grid hookup between PW and Delhaas was negotiated by Ronald Landis and John Antoni, athletic directors at the two schools and the saunchest of friends. Landis formerly served as assistant in football and head baseball coach at Bensalem High before moving into what is considered a choice spot at PM.

Antoni is dickering for a long-time contract between the schools. If it comes off, the game will have to be played early in each season since the Lower Bucks County League will have Delhaas' card blocked off from early October right down to Thanksgiving each season.

Much will depend upon Plymouth Whitemarsh's league committments. The school, which is expected to grow strong class A muscles in a few short years, had entered a bid for the tenth Buxmont league opening. But the Buxmont chose to honor an application of longer standing from Upper Perkiomen.

Now Landis is making efforts to secure the open eigthh position in the strong Ches-Mont conference that includes Coatesville, Bridgeport, Berwyn, West Chester, Phoenixville, Downingtown and Pottstown.

Whatever the fate of future Delhaas-PW relations, the tee-off game, at least, should prove vastly interesting. Landis and Antoni sip from the same saucer as football goes. They're both defensive exponents and budding experts.

Delhaas will have the advantage of an extra grade—osmething of a novelty for the Tigers, who competed for years on an 11-grade basis. However, the bulk of the 1953 Delhaas unit will depart with Spring graduation, leaving Antoni the job of redecorating his many - formation football machine.

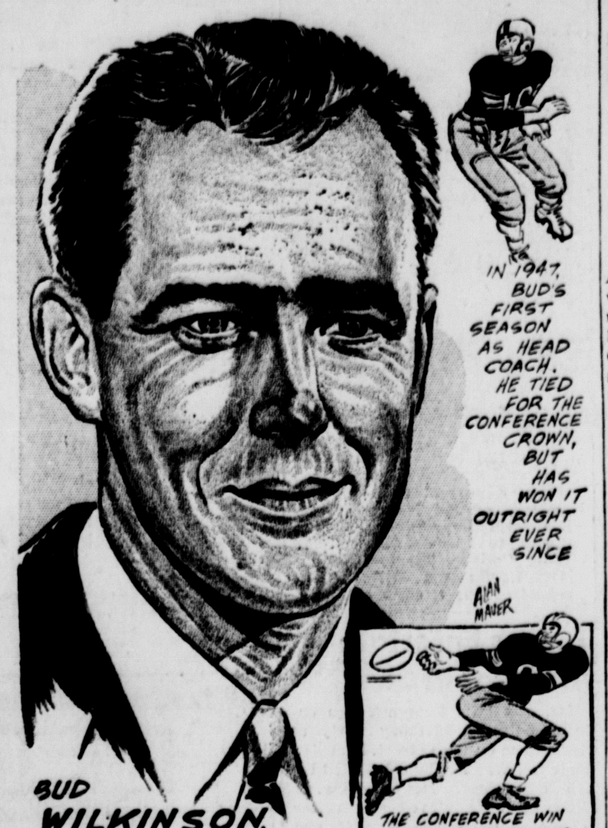

The connotations here are generally good. This corner is of the strong opinion that the LBCL must range as far and wide as is practical in seeking out exhibition foes. Only in that manner will it establish itself as the powerful scholastic fraternity it is expected to become in the next half-decade.

Delhaas is to be congratulated for its efforts along these lines. Already the Tigers have hedge-hopped possible softer touches in the neighborhood to visit Pleasantville, N. J., for a pitched battle.

Now the Tigers are going West, like all young men AND young leagues should do.

CORNER SHOTS . . . He's not being pushed, but he may jump. . . . That's the word reaching this corner about an LBCL head football coach who may be hankering to pull up stakes after the current school year. . . . Hugh Bowe, outstanding with Rohm and Haas' 1952-53 entry in the Bristol Industrial basketball league, is back on the R&H roster . . . he may make his Lower Bucks County Athletic Conference debut this week . . . It's a boy, and second child, for the William Rices of Levittown. Bill is the bustling Levittown A. A. forward who may be the lightweight champ of the LBCAC. . . . That league, incidentally, is considering the formation of a Saturday volleyball period for interested teams in the area . . . just another phase of its effort to activate all sports, major and minor, in this blossoming area.

A tall, tough Levittown Athletic Association quintet squares off with undefeated Franklin A. C. tonight in the opener of a Lower Bucks County Athletic Conference doubleheader. It could be the game of the young season in the sizzling league.

Levittown installed itself as a genuine contender yesterday with a resounding 71-52 victory over fading Torano's Garage in the bottom half of a bargain attraction at Rohm and Haas Clubhouse, Bristol. Rohm and Haas claimed its second win in the opener, an 83-59 nod over winless, cellar-bound Morrisville.

The Levittowners move into tonight's 7:15 attraction with a mark of four wins in five starts. They have lost only to Kaiser (3-0) the current runnerup. Franklin has been in active since last Monday when it belted Bensalem Alumni, 95-62, for its fourth straight win.

Tomkins Leads Way

Stew Tomkins, the onetime La Salle collegian who skippers the Levittown entry, fired a last half rally yesterday as his team dissolved a 45-42 three-quarter deficit to win. The shorter, but scrappy Torano club had forged the three-point advantage after 30 minutes of nip-tuck lead-swapping on the good firing of Frank Thropp and Bob Whitfield.

As the last period opened, Tomkins splashed in two straight setshots and Bill Hughes posted a onehander from the side. That made it 48-45, Levittown, and the rout was on.

Torano, which had scored well enough in the first three rounds, got only three ringers and a free flip down the hatch in the last quarter. Meanwhile, Tomkins pumped in five fielders and Hughes, Paul Kashad and Bill Rice landed two each to inspire a 29-point salvo.

The Levittowners won the game on the backboards. They monopolized both terminals on the work of Tomkins, Norm Dayton, Ike Eisenhart and Dave Schafer. More often than not, the losers were limited to one shot a trip, and in the final period, those shots were missing.

Tomkins finished with 25 points and Hughes had ten as nine Levittowners contributed to the scoring. Whitfield's 12 and Thropp's 13 guided the Garagemen.

Zook, Oriola Shine

The combined brilliance of glowering Walt Zook and Toby Oriola paced Rohm and Haas a relatively easy winner in the opener, although the Bridge Grille team rallied in the middle rounds. Zook, patrolling his in-close station, hoisted home 27 points, while Oriola pattered hither and yon energetically to ring up 28 in his finest effort to date.

R&H buzzed to a huge 23-16 first quarter lead as Zook landed 12 points and Oriola four. Then Morrisville began chipping away at the deficit. The Trojans outscored R&H, 18-9, in the next period when Bill Beaver and Jim Davis combined for 13 points to make it a close 38-34 halftime game.

In the third period Davis, who finished with 25 markers, lofted home six field goals as Morrisville cut the gap to a single point on three occasions. But Oriola, with occasional help from Zook and Bill Butz, beat back the rally. Thanks to two quick Oriola baskets, his fourth and fifth of the period, the R&H team moved into the stretch with a 59-52 advantage.

Zook, who had been stifled in the middle rounds, and the veteran Pat Carnvale took over from there. Each poured in three ringers as the winners outscored Morrisville, 24-7, in the final ten minutes.

Besides Oriola and Zook, Butz landed in twin figures with 14 points, while for Morisville, Walt Barber with 11 and Brewer with nine were Davis' handiest helpers.

In the afterpiece of tonight's doubleheader, Morrisville and Bensalem Alumni will duel for the cellar. Neither has won, Bensalem dropping three and Morrisville five.

SOMETHING NEW IN THE LBCAC

Something new is being added to the Lower Bucks County Athletic Conference basketball attractions at Rohm and Haas Clubhouse, Bristol.

Through the efforts of league president J. J. Gouza, additional scoreboard space is being erected for the purpose of posting players' names. Placards will hang on either side of the scoreboard listing the names and numbers of each of the five players in combat for each team at any given time.

What's more, the placards will be done up in colors corresponding to those worn by the various teams. The operation may begin Thursday night, Gouza said.

Meanwhile, a new address system has been installed for the airing of recorded music before and between games.

Bulldogs Slate 15 Cage Games

Morrisville High School will open a 15-game varsity basketball card Friday night when it moves into Philadelphia to test St. John's.

The opener will be the only tune-up contest for the Bulldogs before they go to the post Jan. 5 against Delhaas to lift the lid on their 1954 Lower Bucks County League card.

St. John's will be met in a return engagement Feb. 12. The only other non-league rival on the Bulldog card is Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, listed for Jan. 15 combat at Morrisville.

Junior High basketmen at Morrisville are scheduled for 13 games, while the MHS girls team will make its Lower Bucks County League debut with a ten-game schedule.

To Open Cage Play For Junior Circuit

The Lower Bucks County YMCA Junior Basketball league will move into action tomorrow night, it was announced today by George A. Sperling, physical director at the Y.

All games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights at the YMCA gym, located on Mansion street, near Beaver street in Bristol.

Eight teams have signed for play in the conference, Sperling said. They include the Bristol Terrace quint, Croydon Comets, Levittown Boys Club, Bristol Branch YMCA, Croydon A. C., West Bristol Hurricanes, Bristol Township A. C., and St. Francis Vocational School, Fallsington.

The league will be played in two halves. Winners of each round will meet for the championship in a playoff series at the end of the year.

Doubleheaders, the first games starting at 7:15 and the second at 8:30, will be played each game night. Qualified officials have been secured to officiate, Sperling said.

LBCL Basketballers Tackle Ten-Game Slate This Week

Neshaminy and Morrisville Highs join the basketball fun this week to make the 1953-54 baptism complete for Lower Bucks County League teams.

The Redskins, who are still waiting for their roomy new home quarters to be completed, hit the road tomorrow night to take on Upper Dublin in a varsity-jayvee doubleheader. Morrisville gets going when it visits St. John's of Philadelphia Friday night for its only pre-league warmup struggle.

Other LBCL entries, who already have shaken off first game rustiness, will continue to sharpen their tools in other contests this week. Bristol High (2-0) seeks to protect its perfect report card when it visits George School Wednesday night, then comes home for Friday night combat with Bordentown. Pennsbury (1-1) gets the first shot at George School in a home contest tomorrow night, while Ewing will cross the river to test Ewing High in the Trenton suburbs Friday night.

Bensalem (0-1) works out twice, meeting Hatfield and its Alumni in home games on Tuesday and Friday nights respectively. And Delhaas (2-0) risks its good mark when it visits sharpshooting Lower Moreland at Bethayres tomorrow night in its final tuneup.

"Expecting Little"

Neshaminy, which has been holding twice-a-week drills at Rohm and Haas clubhouse, Bristol, has a fair nucleus of semi-experienced hands back for Coach Fred Gerst's first year at the helm. They include Ken Kauffman, tall Stan Covington, Ken Hibbs, Bill Apsche, Joe Moronese, Dick Holly, Dick Wilt, Fred Sangillo and Bob Rothenbach.

Other first-year candidates who may figure in the varsity lineup are Eric Latham, Tom Lauther, Bill Shapcott, Fred Buhner and Vinnie Sibel.

Gerst has let it be known that he is "expecting very little" from his club this Winter. The affable redhead, who guided the Redskins to the 1953 LBCL baseball championship, is ready for a long construction program at the school that never has been celebrated for its basketball.

Neshaminy's fine gymnasium, now less than three weeks away from completion, is expected to be a key factor in the building program. So are elementary leagues and possible Summer programs, both of which are included on Gerst's blueprints.

Morrisville will go into combat with a new coach after losing John Mock, the incumbent, to Fairless Steel several weeks ago. Richard Lee has been appointed on a temporary basis to fill the gap and is expected to have considerable talent on hand. The Bulldogs are another group in the darkhorse class for the LBCL flag fight.

Bristol will be favored in both its battles after getting off fast against Ewing and Trenton Catholic, both respected and respectable enemies. Glossy Phil Attardo and speedsters Harold Loud and Dick Crosby are expected to show the way for the Warriors.

Pennsbury goes against George School as an even bet, but will be the underdog at Ewing. The Falcons lost to Central Bucks, but came back strong to wallop Mt. Holly last Friday night.

Bensalem, not figured as bad as the 80-49 lacing it took from Upper Moreland Friday night, should get on track against Hatfield and stay there against its Alumni. The Owls are tall and need only polish to be a league contender.

The Delhaas case is problematical. Coach Tom Elliot's Tigers have won over P. S. D. and Lower Moreland in a pair of matinee games by a total of only three points. They topped P. S. D., 52-50, in a double overtime, then nipped LM, 56-55, at home last week. If they display an inclination to win on the road, there may be trouble brewing in Bristol Township for the league hotshots.

Wildcats, Hoosiers, Dukes Dubbed Tops

NEW YORK—(INS) — Indiana and Kentucky the undefeated twin kings of the college basketball world, come in for some real rugged competition tonight but both are expected to protect their unblemished records.

Indiana's Hoosiers held onto the No. 1 position in the weekly International News Service college basketball survey, but Kentucky's Wildcats are clawing dangerously close.

The Hoosiers, defending NCAA and Big Ten champions, easily downed little Butler, 76 to 57, with the whole first team sitting out the second half. Indiana's All-American candidate Don Schlundt, was in top form, getting 17 points during the time he was in action.

Kentucky looked none the worse for its NCAA-forced one-year layoff. Coach Baron Rupp's Cats won their second straight game without difficulty, topping Xavier, 81 to 66, Saturday night.

Tough Assignments

Things will be rougher for the two top teams this week, however. Indiana opens Monday night by taking on powerful Notre Dame, while the Wildcats go up against upset-minded Wake Forest, one of the powers of the south.

Duquesne's Iron Dukes hold down third place in the INS poll. The Dukes ripped to a 79-to-41 victory over Pittsburgh Saturday night and showed they are one of the best in the land. Duquesne plays Carnegie Tech tonight in what should prove nothing more than a soft workout but meets Texas Thursday.

With the college basketball season only in its infancy, potential still played a big role in the rankings of the teams. However, some of the expected powers failed to make the grade.

Illini Unbeaten

Illinois kept its record spotless by defeating Alabama, 77 to 54, in its last outing. The impressive victory shot the Illini into fourth place in the standings.

Kansas State took over fifth place by edging potent Wyoming, 76 to 69, Saturday night. Fordham, one of the strongest in the talent-loaded east, gained sixth place by whipping Princeton, 74 to 61, and Dayton, which gets its strongest test from Louisville Wednesday night, garnered seventh place by crushing Ohio Wesleyan, 98 to 71.

Comets Finish Year Unbeaten

The all-conquering Croydon Comets left no question as to their supremacy in the Lower Bucks County Midget Football league yesterday when they racked up runner-up Newportville A. C., 19-0, in a season-ending tiff at Croydon.

It was the eighth win of the unbeaten year and sixth in the league for the 110-pounders from Croydon. The Comets had beaten Newportville, 20-12, in the first meeting the the top teams two weeks ago at Newportville.

Pat Haworth scored on a first quarter sneak from the two-yard line to get all the points his team needed. In the second period Bill McNutt circled end for a five-yard tally, and in the third Buddy Anderson drilled through center and sped 20 scoring yards. McLaughlin added the point on a plunge after the last tally.

For the losers, Ray Givens and Herb Schoell were outstanding, but Newportville never seriously threatened. It was Newportville's third loss in six league starts.

Eagles Stun Browns, 42-27

Philadelphia Eagles posted a host of new team records on the books today by closing the 1953 season with a spectacular 42-27 victory over the Cleveland Browns and knocking the eastern division champions from the undefeated ranks.

Pinpoint passing by quarterback Bobby Thomason who clicked on 23 of 35 aerials including three paydirt tosses was the highpoint of the Eagles' victory which gave the team undisputed possession of second place.

Thomason scored a fourth touchdown himself on a sneak from the one, and also guided a smart running game aided by fleet Don Johnson and Toy Ledbetter, who also visited the enemy end zone.

An inspired Eagle line charged Cleveland's Otto Graham throughout the game, putting on such pressure that the famed Brown passer couldn't unleash any consistent aerial game. Two of Graham's tosses were pilfered by Russ Craft.

The Browns, eager to become the first team in the NFL to go through an undefeated season since 1942 started out fast, driving 63 yards for a touchdown after the opening kickoff, then adding a field goal to lead 10-0 at the quarter.

The Birds bounced back to take a 14-13 lead at the half, however, and but for a few minutes in the third period when they trailed 20-14, were never in danger.

A record crowd of 38,654 watched the game in which the Eagles rolled up 31 first downs to the Browns 20, and gained 459 yards to the Browns' 339.

VILLANOVA GRIDDERS GUESTS AT BANQUET

TV Brings Back Parlor Courting

LONDON — INS — A British psychologist believes that television will bring courting back to the family parlor, from where it virtually disappeared after the advent of the movies.

Prof. T. G. Furgusson Rodger predicts that instead of going to a motion picture theater to pursue their courtship young people will increasingly remain at home watching TV.

Addressing a Congress of Royal Sanitary Association, Prof. Furgusson Rodger said:

"The introduction of movies, which at first sight was remote from personal relationships, led to a change in the courtship habits of the western world and to a change in the relationships of the young people and their families.

"Now we are witnessing a similar situation with the introduction of television."

He added television would bring changes "with profound social consequences" but discounted a prediction that it would lead to fewer marriages.

Luggage Patent Key To Levittown Story

By Barbara A. Zauner

A design patent for plastic luggage moved Alvin and Charlotte Seitz from their childhood home in Olney, Pa., to 5 Starlight lane, Levittown. Though they could not use the Seitz invention, Atlantic Products in Morrisville hired Seitz for their production department. The job came first, the home second. Both are equally pleasing.

The two Seitz brothers, Alvin and Charles, Jr., have always been luggage minded. Their father is in the business. He, too, held a design patent from which he collected royalties for a good many years. His was a non-collapsible frame for canvas zipper bags. It was natural for the boys to think along the same lines.

After Alvin came home from the Maritime Service and Charles had graduated from the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, they pooled their efforts toward perfecting a product. Alvin contributed savings and business administration training acquired at Temple University. Charles drew not only on his own knowledge of the luggage business, but also his thorough background in chemistry.

Sought Different Way

Luggage was the product, but how to make it different from anything on the market presented the problem. The Seitzes wanted something more durable than leather that could be made in a variety of colors. Plastics were coming into their own at that time. They developed their own composition, but a patent could not be taken out on the plastic itself. A design patent, good for eleven years, could be taken out, however, on the construction of the luggage itself. This was done in 1950.

In the meantime Al had re-met Charlotte, or "Chots," as she is called. He'd known her as a child in his neighborhood in Olney, but never paid any attention to her because she was part of a younger crowd. When he saw her grown up it was a different story. They were engaged for three years, however, before their marriage March 27, 1951. Chots wanted Al to be able to work on making the invention a going business.

"I didn't want to burden him with me at that time," she explained.

Tested Luggage Line

For two years the brothers stuck it out. They developed a handsome piece of luggage, tested it with friends on long trips, and made countless samples by hand in their mother's basement. Fifty thousand dollars were needed to put it on the production lines, and that kind of money was unfortunately unavailable.

Alvin took one of the samples to the luggage manufacturers in Morrisville. They liked the idea, but found it impractical for them. But they liked Alvin, and hired him. He is an assistant production manager there today.

Aside from the Seitz family's enthusiasm for bridge, they are avid collectors of Chot's sister's art work. Mrs. William Keichner's hobby is painting small ceramic figures. Charlotte and Alvin have many of them. Among them are formally attired kissing bugs, a trio of pink and white angels playing on golden musical instruments and a little Dutch boy and girl cuddling on their curio shelf in the bookcase.

The guest room in the Seitz home has also been graced by the hand of the artist. The pattern Chots selected for the curtains in the room is called "Country Auction." From this her sister selected her motif. She painted the pineapple designed bed and old chest black. To the headboard she added a steam engine and caboose in the center with a rooster on either side. The chest is adorned with two roosters and a trailing vine.

Gov. Fine Will Get 1953 Prize Quilt

HARRISBURG — Gov. John S. Fine, during the coming 1954 Pennsylvania Farm Show, will be presented with the quilt that won first place at the 1953 convention of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

Presentation is to take place at the opening session of the third annual Farm Show Grange Women's Day on Tuesday morning, Jan. 12, according to Mrs. C. Wesley Starr, Cheney, chairman of the home economics committee of the State Grange, which is sponsoring the program.

The prize-winning quilt is an "Indian Wedding Ring" design with rings formed of deep rose and white calico triangles and oblongs. It was made by the women of Virginville Grange No. 1832, Berks county, Mrs. Stella Heinley, chairman. The 1952 prize winning Grange quilt also was given to Governor Fine at the 1953 Farm Show.

Cure Rheumatism? Noodles Suggested

SALZBURG, Austria — INS — Austrian doctors have prepared "special noodles" to cure rheumatism, Dr. Josef Schmied told an audience of fellow-physicians recently.

The doctor said at the Austrian physician's congress in Salzburg that tests at his hospital showed that certain acids can be better applied to the body through food instead of injections.

He adds acids mixed into noodles did a much better job to cure several forms of rheumatism than by injections as was customary so far.

DeWitt Clinton, statesman, was born 184 years ago, March 2, 1953.

Expert Foresees Atomic Power Paying Own Way

NEW YORK — New approaches and economies should make possible an atomic power plant "that will not require a government subsidy, but instead will be able to pay taxes on profits," according to Dr. John J. Grebe, director of nuclear research and development, Dow Chemical Co.

Speaking at the 58th Congress of American Industry, Dr. Grebe said that while it is obvious that atomic power can be made "if you do not care how much it costs," a private industry must evaluate a possible new product in a very dispassionate way.

"If the question is whether or not to go into the production of bomb material, plastics, steel or what-not," he explained, "it must be demonstrated that there is a steady market for the product at a price that will permit a net profit sufficient to allow for expansion, even after three-quarters of the income is paid in taxes.

"We do not want to compromise on any limited objective requiring continued subsidy or military demand."

No one knows what the time schedule will be for private-industry atomic plants, Dr. Grebe pointed out, but he added that it would be "reasonable—if nothing interferes," to allow three years for a plutonium-producing plant by way of the first step, and eight to ten years for a plant to produce power in large quantities.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (INS) — Michigan's superintendent of public instruction predicts that the state "in the not too distant future" will give free education for two years beyond the twelveth grade. Dr. Clair L. Exercise for a Better Figure; It Will Improve Your Outlook

WATCH POSTURE as you housework. When using a broom or wax applicator, balance with forward foot, push with rear foot.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE are women who limit their exercising to the lifting of an eyebrow. They will tell you that calisthenics bore them to tears. They are the ones who lose their youthful figures in the forties, take on adipose curves, and it serves them right. They are lazy.

Giving your muscles a little workout now and then won't kill you. It will keep you in form. The woman who thinks life is a dismal flop is the one who loves soft cushions, knows nothing of refreshing outdoor life, never walks if she can ride. She is not entitled to complain because the figure defects she develops are her own fault.

Outdoor life is wonderful. Learn to breathe deeply. Fill your lungs with fresh air. There are many interesting sports—golf, tennis, swimming in summer, skating and walking—which take you outdoors and give your cheeks a rosy glow.

If you are a stay-at-home, you can cultivate rhythmic movement. Be mindful of posture when you go about your daily homemaking chores.

Graceful Picture

When using a broom, floor waxer or carpet sweeper, don't slump. You can create a graceful picture as you work. When you pick up the baby's toys, do the same thing. It will help strengthen the muscles of the mid-section. When reaching for something on a shelf, stretch and exercise your muscles.

The act of mounting stairs can be put to good beauty use. Step lightly on your toes, tuck in your tummy, carry your head high, breathe deeply.

Farmers Blame Failure of Exports For Price Drops

CHICAGO—(INS) — The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation said today that the decline in farm prices results "primarily from a reduction in foreign markets."

Allan B. Kline, head of the nation's largest general farm group, added that "there is no substitute for markets," and declared:

"Both the political and economic aspects of this foreign markets problem require solution."

Exports at Issue

Development of foreign markets is one of several major issues of high political and economic significance on which the federation will take a stand during its current, five-day convention in Chicago.

The convention, which opened Tuesday, is regarded by officials as being the most important in farm bureau history.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, who will address the 5,000 elegates Wednesday, has asked the organization for recommendations on a new farm program being planned by the administration. He has promised to give their ideas careful consideration.

Other Problems

Other important problems to be decided on include:

1. The level of farm price supports, and how to develop and maintain a more stable general price level.

2. Disposition of current surpluses in farm commodities.

3. Labor-management problems affecting farmers.

18 Per Cent Drop

Kline said agricultural prices have fallen approximately 18 per cent in two years, and farm production expenses have continued to rise slowly, greatly reducing the farmer's net income.

He said a high net income, as distinguished from high prices, is the principal aim of the federation. Kline, who delivers the keynote address Tuesday, said:

"There has been a disproportionate emphasis on farm prices because of the political differences over the role of price fixing by the federal government.

Net Income to Object

"Price is a most important factor. But it is this net income thing that deserves to be stressed. It is net income that the farmers live on."

He defined net income as "the units sold times price and minus expenses."

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Christmas Giving Presents Problems

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: Bill was over to the house last Saturday and we were talking about Christmas presents when he up and asked 'What are you going to get me for Christmas?' I answered seriously 'I don't know yet.' And he then said he'd only been kidding but I assured him I wasn't. Just last night he brought up the subject again and when I told him I had his gift all picked out he tried to guess what it was. Then he told me he hadn't figured out what to get me and asked me what I wanted so I told him. All he said was 'oh'. "Now, do you think I should get him a present or not? I like him very much but it's only been going on for about a month. Do you think the only reason he is getting me a present is because I'm getting him one?"

Your directness has put you in the position of having to give Bill a present, or else.

His teasing question was just cagey, fishing around for information. He was trying to find out what you had on your mind. And you went dead serious on him. You could have told him you were thinking of buying him a steam roller or a pair of Great Danes, but maybe he'd rather have a new car. You'd been meaning to ask him which he'd prefer.

Instead you indicated that you'd been giving his gift serious thought—and that put him on the defensive. He's been doing his own serious thinking ever since, witness his bringing up the subject again. He realizes he has to get you a present now and it might as well be something you really want. But I doubt if he expected to be told so bluntly.

This exchange of presents is a foregone conclusion now. You talked both of you into it. But now that its all settled except the opening of the surprise—concentrate on thinking that it's all because you like each other so very much!

Trying to Even the Score?

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: We've been going steady for over five months now and I'm wondering what to get him for Christmas. I feel that he has spent a lot of money on me just for dates—so how 'bout giving him a cashmere sweater? Do you think it would be too much?"

Have you priced cashmere sweaters in his size lately? If you're thinking of washing off your financial obligation to him in a couple of fell swoops such a gift would be a good beginning.

But it might turn out to be an embarrassing extravagance. It might be too too lavish in comparison with the gift he has for you. And it would certainly set a precedent that would be hard to live up to.

There are other sweaters—other gifts, in fact — that would show your heart's in the right place. Even though you think you'd like to even the score, don't go overboard. It's not necessary—nor appropriate.

A Child Who Won't Go to Sleep

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YOU can't force a youngster to sleep by telling him to do so, and spanking him if he doesn't sleep. You might persuade yourself that it was effective if you spanked him long enough and often enough while commanding him to go to sleep, and then he did finally fall asleep from sheer exhaustion.

However, you can, by force, cause a child to remain in a prone or horizontal position favorable for sleep. A child rarely goes to sleep in any other position.

Fail To Distinguish

It seems that some mothers fail to see the foregoing differences. Accordingly, they will tell the child to sleep and then punish him if he doesn't or until he does, usually failing in their purpose of getting him to sleep.

The following letter illustrates:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I've just gone through another session of threats and spanking (hour and a half to be exact) to make my two-year-old boy sleep for his nap. He goes to sleep at night without any trouble, but stubbornly resists, with every ounce in him, sleeping in the afternoon. I've tried putting him to bed right after lunch, or letting him play hard right before napping, talking with him, lying down with him, getting him up earlier in the morning, letting him just rest and look at a book, and finally spanking.

Last Resort

"The last is what I have finally resorted to, much against my will. If he is swatted on the legs with a ruler, and made to stay still and to close his eyes for five minutes, he'll go to sleep. But to get him to do that means spanking and spanking. He'll go to great length to keep his eyes open. Even when he is tired and his head droops, he'll force his eyes open."

Here is my reply in part.

Choose a regular naptime, preferably after his meal or after some cuddling and reading to him. Tuck him tenderly into bed. Say nothing about his sleeping or shutting his eyes. Just tell him he must not get up. Station yourself where you can see him if he does. At that moment, push him down, bare his thigh and smack him with your bare flat hand.

Take position again and, if he rises, proceed as before. Continue until he chooses to stay down. Having set the clock to ring at the end of an hour, say, let him get up then for the afternoon. Stick to this program day after day until he's ready for his nap while with a baby sitter.

Short Training Period

All you are doing, in following this method, is training him to stay down in a horizontal position while in bed. Only a few afternoons of such procedure, if your discipline is consistent, will train him to stay down at naptime, when he naturally will fall asleep.

By a far slower method (which you might prefer) you could just push him down or hold him down (tying would be too dangerous). You might, of course, lie down beside him in your bed, and, if necessary, hold him down or keep him down with caressing pats.

One letter simple stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Your Birthday by STELLA

MONDAY, DECEMBER 14— Born today you are highly individualistic and like to get your own way about everything. Not that you are so dictatorial about it—you must manage things very diplomatically so that people push each other out of the way to help you get exactly what you want! In you, the influence of mind over matter is very marked and you can always do a job faster and better—if you think it through from beginning to end before you start, rather than plunging into activity instantly.

You are fond of all the good things of life and you would like to see that everyone in the world is contented and happy. You will do your share to make the world a pleasant place in which to live. For you, good works begin at home and spread outward into the world. It is likely that you will help in some organization which will benefit all mankind.

Fond of your own home and family, you will want to wed at a fairly early age. For, although you will have a large circle of casual acquaintances, your group of close intimates will be small. Consequently, your own family circle will mean a great deal to you and your happiness. There will probably be one love in your life. If this does not culminate in marriage, you might never wed.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, December 15

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—New ideas come to you thick and fast. It is a stimulating day, mentally. Make good use of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Business should be thriving. Make it a point to take full advantage of all opportunities offered you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Be practical, rather than visionary today. Facts will pay dividends; daydreams, only heartache.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—This is not the ime to neglect old friends. Be sure to remember them, come Christmas time.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—Perhaps you can do something especially fine for a loved one today and bring both of you joy.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—Be sure to take care of all minor details, no matter how unimportant they may seem to you just now.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—If you need advice on a new job, be sure to get an expert or someone who is in charge to give it to you!

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Over adventuresomeness is not the best policy today. Stay on the conservative side for success.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—A good, all around day. Get on with your ideas for advancement. Your ambitions should be fulfilled now.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Stick to business today and the rewards of the conscientious worker should be yours. Don't procraastinate.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—If you keep striving toward a definite goal, then today is the time you may reach your objective.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—An old friend may ask for advice or money—or both. Perhaps you can be of assistance at this time.

Proposes Schools Be Established For Youngsters of 3

HARTFORD, Conn. — INS — The three-year-old who is leading a life of love and luxury — with a play room, lots of toys, a large and safe play yard and a loving mother to care for his every wish —may be better off in nursery school.

Not in all cases, of course, but very often if he is an only child or has a few playmates, says the Connecticut Department of Health.

Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, commissioner, says such a child may receive so much attention that he gets to think his every word is law. But in a nursery school group, the doctor adds, he would easily learn good habits of play and living.

Dr. Osborn warns, though, that a child should not be sent to nursery school until he is old enough physically and emotionally to be cared for in a group.

As a general rule, he notes, a three-year-old child is mature enough to enlarge his world, develop growing independence and some responsibility for his own behavior and learn to play with others his age. The doctor cautions that this is a matter of "readiness" and not chronological age.

While Dr. Osborn thinks it is often a good idea for the mother and child to be separated a few hours a day, he emphasizes the importance of parents' affection for the child.

"It is well," he says, "for mother and father to give the small child some extra warmth and attention when back in the home, so that he will not feel deprived of this most important of all commodities, parents' love."

More Meat In Diet, Britons Slimmer

LONDON — INS—There is more meat available in Britain today so middle-aged Englishmen are regaining their former slim boyish figures.

A London doctor explained the mystery of the disappearing bulges this way:

"Under strict rationing there was nothing for it but to fill up with starchy foods. People ate more bread and potatoes.

"Now they are able to have more meat their diet is more sustaining and they do not eat as much."

British tailors confirmed this slimming trend among the middle-aged men and report doing good business in altering suits to fit their customers.

New Court House Planned To Meet Increasing Needs

Plans are now being prepared by Bucks County Commissioners for a new county court house that will be of ample size and design to serve the needs of one of the fastest growing counties in the United States, it was announced.

The commissioners have decided that an entire new building on the site of the present court house will be "most desirable and most economical."

Concensus of opinion is that within 10 years official Bucks county business will require a larger building than the present one, and the county should have all departments located in one modern structure, instead of having then virtually spread "all over Doylestown.

1st County Seat in Bristol

The first county seat was located in Bristol, laid out in 1697, established as a "seat of justice" in 1705 and incorporated Nov. 14, 1720. In 1725, the county seat was moved to Newtown and as early as 1784 efforts were made and petitions circulated to have the county seat moved to Doylestown.

Doylestown was chosen as the site for the court house in 1810, and in 1812 the first court house was built.

The present Court House was built in 1877.

Get Resolution

The Bucks County Bar Association passed a resolution in 1951 before a county parking lot had been purchased and at a time when county offices were so overcrowded that a serious problem existed—to erect a new Courthouse on an entirely new site.

This resolution, according to J. Lawrence Grim, of Perkasie Bar Association president, and Claire Biehn, of Quakertown, secretary, was presented to the Bucks County Commissioners for their consideration.

Since then, the parking lot was built and the county purchased the Scheetz Building at Monument Square, Doylestown, which greatly relieved congestion.

Gets Okay

The resolution asking for a new Courthouse site, was passed by a majority of the attorneys present at the meeting, but it was not unanimous by any means.

Most attorneys do not want to be quoted but admit that they are in favor of a new building on the present Courthouse site.

John Cummings, historian and curator of the Bucks County Historical Society Museum said any change in the presents courthouse ought to be studied in a careful, unhurried manner.

"A park or open spot is an asset to any community," he said "To sacrifice such an advantage in a growing community might be at least questionable. Then too, while perhaps not exactly aesthetic, historic or antiquarian, there is a distinct appeal to the courthouse and its environs, which is related to the history and growth of both borough and county."

Cummings declared that one of our finest early structures, the Ross Law office, would need to be removed with consequent loss due to change in setting, as well as a risk of great danger of much serious damage to it.

Crossen Handed Six Months For Bristol Attack

DOYLESTOWN — Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite in Quarter Sessions Court sentenced Lewis Crossen, 1019 Chestnut street, Bristol, who pleaded guilty to assault and battery, to serve six months in the Bucks County Prison.

The defendant, who pleaded guilty to the assault and battery on Joan Kelly, 420 Layfayette street, Bristol, Oct. 19, was reported to have been in trouble as a juvenile in 1947 and 1948.

Crossen was accused of beating Miss Kelly identified as his "girl friend," in the offices of the Thomas L. Leedom Company.

'Drove Without Lights'

Earl R. Townsend, Jr., 4945 N. 17th street, Philadelphia, who pleaded guilty to operating his car and turning the lights off to avoid identification, was sentenced by Judge Satterthwaite to pay a $100 fine and the costs of prosecution.

Sellersville Police Chief William D. Hammerschmidt made the arrest Nov. 15 and the defendant testified he turned his lights off because a 15-year-old girl was driving his car at the time.

Judge Edward G. Biester sentenced Mack Jenkins, Jr., 655 Montgomery street, Mobile Ala., who pleaded guilty to stealing $890 from Lavender Hall, near Newtown, to serve from two to five years in the Eastern State Penitentiary in Philadelphia.

garage fire at Newtown; train wreck at Bristol; house fire at Perkasie, in which eight children were endangered; dry-cleaning establishment fire at Feasterville; horse and van fire at Buckingham.

Caution was urged in handling Christmas trees.

Offers Service

William Underkoffer, of Perkasie, reporting for the executive committee, said a Doylestown attorney has offered services free to the county firemen's association as well as to the fire chiefs and fire police associations.

Frank Faust, New Hope, reporting for the auditing committee, said the books of treasurer and financial secretary, were in order.

Firemen were informed it was suggested at a recent meeting of Keystone State Fire Chiefs Association law and legislative committee, that various county firemen's units have members represented on such committee. This committee, it was pointed out, could go over proposed bills before they are presented to the state legislature.

A committee from the county association named to meet with the Bucks County Planning Association, reported that only 12 boroughs or townships in Bucks County have fire codes. Some of the 12 have no one to administer the codes, the committee said. It was suggested that a responsible fireman be appointed in such cases to administer the code.

For the wireless and communications committee, Paul Myers reported thaat Feasterville is to have a base station which will serve various communities in a 60-watt basis.

Urges Larger School

Lloyd Crouthamel of Dublin, urged a larger pumping school by the county firemen next spring.

The fire prevention committee reported success at the booth conducted at Middletown Grange Fair in October. Three thousand circulars were distributed.

William Erwin, of Cornwells Heights, delegate to the recent state convention of firemen, described the effect of an A-bomb blast on the average house. He stressed the need for a state fire code.

Host In March

In March the Yardley Fire Company will be host to the county association. Plans for the annual parade in Perkasie in June were reported as advancing.

A speaker for the evening, Arthur Easby, Drexel Hill, had as his subject "The Seven Fundamental Steps in Fighting a Fire". These were listed as: (1) size-up magnitude of fire; (2) call for help; (3) save a life; (4) locate base of fire; (5) coverage and exposure; (6) extinguishing and preventing spread; (7) checking everything to make certain no flames have remained in walls or partitions.

Brief remarks were also made by Charles Roberts, past president.

The members of Ladies Auxiliary units of the county assembled in Wesley hall, Newtown Methodist Church, while the firemen were in session. Seventy-nine attended. The Doylestown unit provided a musical program. The Langhorne unit had the largest delegation. Mrs. Raymond Carter, Lahaska, was presiding officer. Gifts were distributed.

Rittler Reviews Year of Progress Under Township Zoning Statute

One year ago today zoning laws in Bristol Township went into effect, but the trails and trifles which went into their making have evaporated.

These are the words of Walter Rittler, 27 Woodside avenue, Bristol twp., the zoning officer.

And Rittler should know, for he's been working with the laws for more than two years, both in formulating and carrying them out. The officer, who issues permits and investigates violations, said the laws, from the start, were a headache. But planners are accustomed to conflicts in proposed residential and commercial areas, he said. He and others, in fact, had to start from nothing and build effective and fair zoning codes.

Infractions Small

But during the past year, Rittler said, people have been exceptionally cooperative and not one fine for violation has been imposed by the township since the laws were passed.

"There were some small infractions," he said, "But these were referred to the Board of Adjustment and straightened out in that respect."

"Most difficulties,' the officer explained, "Arose because people did not understand what the ordinances stipulated."

The easiest way to avoid these difficulties, Rittler said, would be for any person contemplating building or other changes which would be affected by zoning to obtain a copy of the codes and maps from him at his home. A nominal fee is charged.

No Officer Yet

The codes can only be had through him, Rittler said, because as yet the township has no central office. This, in a way, is a blessing, he said, because if zoning permits had to be obtained through a central office, more times than not the applicant would wait up to the 15 days specified in the ordinances before getting a permit.

"As long as the office is situated in my home," he said, "I'll try to do everything I can to get permits through as fast as possible. As of now, I try to put them through immediately upon application."

"An important point to remember," Rittler added, "is that zoning permits must be obtained before building permits can be issued. By cooperating in this, people can save themselves a lot of wasted time and energy."

Points to Consider

The officer listed a few of the important points which must be considered in dealing with the laws.

First, and perhaps most important, is the fact that for each and every day after being ordered to stop building or operating, the violator is subject to separate fines which can go as high as $25 each. In default of the fines, violators are subject to 30 days in jail for each offense and each additional day the offense continues.

Rittler said, however, that the information following is not a threat.

"I feel that people should know these details so that I can better work with them," he said, "and that is my only reason for discussing them."

Designated Duties

In way of explanation, it is his duty as duly appointed zoning officer to enforce the provisions of the ordinances, examine all applications for permits, issue permits only in accordance with the requirements of the Zoning Ordinance and to record such applications with accompanying plans and documents. Permits for uses which are exceptions or variances to the requirements are issued only on the order of the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

"Violators," as defined by the code, are any general agent, architect, building contractor, owner, lessee or tenant responsible for the act.

"As yet," Rittler said, "no one has been ordered to tear part of a building down and we hope it never reaches that stage. The ordinances to date have achieved their purpose, but we would have had many more problems had their been more than one large builder operating in the area. Levitt and Sons have complied well with the zoning codes.

"Prior to a year ago, residents could do just about anything they cose as far as zoning was concerned, but even so, they were handling things well and progessively by themselves. However, it was inevitable that zoning be born with the rapid growth of the township. Through the laws, the township now has some control over the various ventures which are coming in.

In Detroit, Employment and payrolls in the U. S. automotive industry set all-time records in 1953, William J. Cronin, managing director of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, said today.

During the year, in which production of motor vehicles reached the second highest level in history, the industry maintained an average employment of 930,000, topping the previous record set in 1951 by 85,000. Payrolls, Cronin said, increased for the sixth straight year, reaching a new peak of $3.5 billions.

The total employment figure includes 770,000 production workers, who averaged 40.8 hours of work a week at an average hourly rate of $2.14. Weekly paychecks for production employes averaged $87.38.

The "secondary boycott" was attacked today by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce as "designed to injure innocent bystanders."

"An employer may find a picket line around his store or plant because a union is trying to organize the employees of one of his suppliers," a statement from the Chamber said. "The purpose is to prevent him from doing further business with the supplier so that the latter will be forced to come to terms with the union. If the employer is forced out of business both he and the employees are injured, as well as his customers who can no longer buy his goods or services."

The Chamber said "many businessmen....(using its facilities)... will seek amendment of the Taft-Hartley Act in the next session of Congress to prohibit threats, coercion and economic sanctions against neutral employers. The Taft-Hartley Act," the Chamber said, "was intended to prevent secondary boycotts, but a number of loopholes need to be closed."
